Laden with

AMMUNITION,

By the Dutch, design'd for Ireland.

Together with the particulars of the Blowing up of DUNKIRK by the Magazine taking Fire.

THE French Letters fay, and the Dutch Letters confirm, that Five French Ships laden in the Port of Dunkirk with all forts of Munitions of War, and going under the Convoy of two of their fmall Men of War; the French Convoys, after receiving the firſt Broad-fide, fheering off, efcaped; and they are now actually brought into Rotterdam, where being examined into, are found to be Freighted with theſe following Particulars, viz.

In one of them are 16 Demi-Culverins upon Carriages, with Sponges, Ladles and all other Materials thereto, as Traces, and Harneſs for the Draught of Horſes 256 Barrels of Gunpowder. 6000 Iron Bullets. 120 Quintals of Match. 500 Barrels of Muſquet, Carbine, and Piſtol-ſhot. 1500 Chevaux de Frize. 400 Turnſpiks. 3 Gabions, and other Baskets. 7000 Mattocks, as many Shovels. 300 Wheel-barrows. 2 Mortars 600 Bombs, from 60 to 100 l. weight each. 6000 Horſe-ſhoes. 2000 Saddles, as many Bridles, with Holſters for Piſtols, and Cruppers. 4000 New Tents. 3000 Firelock Muſquets. 2000 Matchlocks. 1000 Fuſees 6000 Swords, Bandaliers, Belts, &c. with much other Materials, too long to inſert, all which are condemned as Prize, and are to be brought to Amſterdam, and the greateſt part order'd to Maeſtricht and Breda for the uſe of the States Army. And this direful Misfortune (as the Engliſh Proverb denotes, Seldom Comes Alone) is attended in with another worſe than that before mention'd; whereof take the Particulars.

At Dunkirk there happen'd a Terrible and Surprizing Diſaſter in the French Garriſon there: For the ſame being look'd upon the Metropolitan over all the French Garriſons in the New Conqueſts in Flanders, whereby mighty Stores of all ſorts of Munitions of War were Repoſited, for the carrying on the Deſigns of Lewis the XIV. was by one Fatal Blow and Diſaſter, through the Negligence of a Drunken Workman, or Soldier, with a lighted Pipe of Tobacco, entirely Blown up and Deſtroyed.

The certainty of the Occaſion cannot be authentickly known, becauſe the Power gave no manner for Enquiry, but precipitately carried all before it into the Region of the Air, which as it was more Inclufive, had greater Extenſive Efficacy on the Garriſon, it having deſtroyed and wholly ſwept out Three of the moſt ſtrong Fortifi-
